the end without price, sent in the name of spiritual photography that we devote this page to illustrations bearing upon it. The charge against Mr. MURMAN is that, by means of what he terms spiritual photography, he has exhibited many credulous persons, leading them to believe it possible to photograph the luminated forms of their departed friends.

The case has excited the professional interest, and, strange as it may seem, there are thousands of people who believe that its development will justify the claims made by the spiritual photographer. We shall not attempt to give an exposition to our own opinions, but simply to follow the development of the case through the testimony offered during the first few days of the trial.

It is through the inconsistency of Marshal Jerome H. Tuckman that the case has been brought before the courts. He deposes that he was ordered by Mayor HARRIS to investigate the case, which he did by assuming a false name, and by getting his photograph taken by Mr. MURMAN. After the taking of the picture the negative was shown him, with a dim, indistinct outline of a ghostly face staring out of an empty, and he was told that the picture represent him a man against a life insurance company for the amount claimed to be due on a certain policy was being heard. Looking toward that part of the courtroom occupied by the jury, I saw the spirit of the man whose death was the basis of the suit. The spirit told me the circumstances connected with the death; said that the suit was groundless, that the claimant was not entitled to recover from the company, and said that he (the man whose spirit was speaking) had committed suicide under certain circumstances; I drew a diagram of the place at which his death occurred, and on showing it to the counsel, was told that it was exact in every particular."

A large number of witnesses deposed that they recognized the forms of departed friends (in some cases of those long dead) in the photographs taken for them by MURMAN. The most striking case was that of a gentleman of Wall Street, whose deceased wife's features both he and his friends distinctly recognized in a photograph taken for him in this way.

If there is a trick in Mr. MURMAN's process it has certainly not been detected as yet. To all appearances spiritual photography rests just where the rappings and table-turnings have rest-

1 Corinthians 15:1-8 (ESV): “Now I would remind you, brothers, of the gospel I preached to you, which you received, in which you stand, 2 and by which you are being saved, if you hold fast to the word I preached to you – unless you believed in vain. 3 For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received: that Christ died for our sins in accordance with the Scriptures,...”

A black and white photograph of a nuclear mushroom cloud rising from a large, dark, textured ground surface. The cloud is composed of a thick, billowing base of smoke and debris, with a central column of fire and smoke rising to a large, rounded, and glowing top. The background is dark and hazy, suggesting a desolate landscape.
